Concept good, gameplay is solid and bug free. Way too easy. This game could be as good as banished if it were just difficult, its kindof a slog with no real challenge. Relaxing though.. After a rough start, shout out to the Dev for personally responding and ♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥

Game is fun, fluid and interactive. Tough finding games in the US that aren't either full or dead empty, but that's just us not liking football. ant-man and civil war not included in season pass, what a let down. should have not bothered with season pass and just bought ant-man and spider-man DLC. It's fun... for one game.

The reason? My first ever turn went on for half an hour and seemed like it would never end. With no real peril or impression that I was going to die, I was so tired I just had to let the hordes descend on me and kill me for a break!. While the devs describe this game as a 'streamlined take on the classic "4x" genre', that's a bit of an overstatement. It's pretty much just a straight line. There really isn't much to do other than build up an fleet and try to overwhelm everything as you expand outward. Other than your ships, the only resource to manage is upgrading factories on planets so they will build more ships each turn. This does forfeit any ship building for that planet that turn and the only limit is that you can only upgrade one factory per turn & a particular factory cannot be upgraded on consecutive turns.

The main negative of this game is that there is no online community anymore, meaning that there are 3 achievements that will be impossible to earn without help from friends who also own this game.

So why do I recommend it? Because sometimes simple is fun. It's easy to generate a small map and have a quick game that you can finish in under 15 minutes or pull up a huge one for an 8 player last-man-standing war that can last a while. If you either allow the adaptive AI to level up as you win games (or raise it manually), eventually your opponents will put up a decent fight. If they get to be too much, you can always knock it down a bit to make it challenging and fun for you the player (and turn off adaptive AI). Without any real online play I don't think I'd pay full price, but if you can catch it on good sale it worth a few bucks for a quick and simple strategy fix.

A powerful but cursed unit that requires some finesse to play as he can accidentally AOE all his team-mates to death if not used with care. Destructive mage caster class.. This review is LOONG overdue but Genie is in my top five favorite walking simulators ever. EVER. I love, love, love the narrative, contributed by great voice acting because you keep wanting to hear more and sometimes space out on the gameplay, while getting lost in Lula's thoughts and stories ;) The game is very extensive, with multiple endings and different paths to take. I definitely think you get your money's worth, with all of the twenty minute walking sims out there.

Genie is also filled with beautiful graphics and some very fun easter eggs too. And if you're into riding dragons - there is a surprise at the end (because yes, I was thinking about the dragon the entire time!) :). Fun and easy game for people learning to move a character in a 3D environment.

Cons:

- 180 trampoline jumps have a weird and counter intuitive way of keeping your momentum
- Mouse sens is broken
- Last level is very badly designed, requiring you to clip through an object just to be able to see.
- Very short, took me 1 hour to complete everything and that's when having spent time trying to fix mouse sens.

Worth a buy if it's on sale for less than $1. Nice game, it is fun. Yes, a downvote so it must be a troll.

Ignore all the other upvotes, this is not a good game.

In my first 30 minutes playing, I immedietly knew that this game wasn't what I expected when I noticed the transportation mode is exactly the same as SteamVR and the way of picking objects up is exactly the same as SteamVR. The only thing I liked about this is the original idea and how the narrator says, "wood." (It's so funny how he says it! xD) And I only recommend this game if it on sale for like, 2 dollars. The Lab is better than this game, but it does have potential.

4V10, unfortunately.. A heart-pounding horror game with a truly unique plot. For only $5 this game is absolutely worth picking up!. Even though the game is almost free I still had to give it a thumb down - it is poorly programmed walking simulator (even with lowered graphic details and low resolution it freezes for few seconds every time I turn around), the atmosphere is not bad, but it is a game with about 30 minutes of gameplay where you have very little to actually do and deal with "puzzles" that are hard to understand what have to do with anything.

Perhaps Artania has something to offer, but the game does everything possible to put me off from discovering what it is all about.. This game is a scam. Softlocked by terrible programming. You can't reach past 1kb storage so broken game.
